ANNEX I

Work Programme for 2022
in the framework of

Regulation (EU) No 1144/2014 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 22 October 2014 on information provision and promotion measures concerning agricultural products implemented in the internal market and in third countries

1.1. Introduction

On the basis of the objectives set out in Regulation (EU) No 1144/2014, this work programme contains the actions to be financed with the following breakdown for year 2022:

(a) for grants (implemented under direct management and shared management, point 1.2. below): EUR 176 400 000;

(b) for procurement (implemented under direct management, point 1.3. below): EUR 9 500 000.

1.2. Grants

Legal basis:

Regulation (EU) No 1144/2014

Budget Lines:

Information provision and promotion programmes may consist of ‘simple’ programmes or ‘multi’ programmes. Simple programmes are programmes submitted by one or more proposing organisations which are all from the same Member State. Multi programmes are programmes submitted by at least two proposing organisations which are from at least two Member States or one or more Union organisations.

Simple and multi programmes have different management modes, different financing modes and are included in two different budget lines:

08.02.03.02: for simple programmes

08.02.03.03: for multi programmes

Description of the activities to be funded under the call for proposals

Information and promotion programmes shall consist of a coherent set of operations and shall be implemented over a period of at least one year but not more than three years. They shall in particular consist of promotional activities and information campaigns, notably taking the form of public relations, advertising, points of sales activities, participation in events and fairs of national, European and international importance, social media activities, online promotion campaigns, etc.
Implementation

The present work programme shall be implemented, for simple and multi programmes, through the publication of two calls for proposals organised, launched and managed by the European Research Executive Agency (REA).

Proposals for simple and multi programmes shall be evaluated on the basis of the criteria laid down in Annex II and Annex III, respectively.

Afterwards, the financing of simple programmes shall be implemented by the Member States and multi programmes by the European Research Executive Agency (REA).

Maximum rates of Union financing of the eligible costs

(a) Simple programmes

The Union financial contribution to simple programmes in the internal market shall be 70% of the eligible expenditure. For proposing organisations established in Member States in receipt of financial assistance in accordance with Articles 136 and 143 TFEU on or after 1 January 2014, the percentage shall be 75% for programmes decided upon by the Commission before the date from which the Member State concerned no longer receives such financial assistance.

The Union financial contribution to simple programmes implemented in third countries shall be 80% of the eligible expenditure. For proposing organisations established in Member States in receipt of financial assistance in accordance with Articles 136 and 143 TFEU on or after 1 January 2014, the percentage shall be 85% for programmes decided upon by the Commission before the date from which the Member State concerned no longer receives such financial assistance.

(b) Multi programmes

The Union financial contribution to multi programmes shall be 80% of the eligible expenditure. For proposing organisations established in Member States in receipt of financial assistance in accordance with Articles 136 and 143 TFEU on or after 1 January 2014, the percentage shall be 85% for programmes decided upon by the Commission before the date from which the Member State concerned no longer receives such financial assistance.

(c) Special co-financing rate to simple and multi programmes

The Union financial contribution to simple and multi programmes shall be 85% of the eligible expenditure in the event of serious market disturbance, loss of consumer confidence or other specific problems. For proposing organisations established in Member States in receipt of financial assistance in accordance with Articles 136 and 143 TFEU on or after 1 January 2014, the percentage shall be 90% for programmes decided upon by the Commission before the date from which the Member State concerned no longer receives such financial assistance.

Indicative timetable and indicative amount of the calls for proposals

Calls for proposals for the co-financing of the implementation of information provision and promotion programmes in the internal market and in third countries i.e. actions under thematic priorities 1, 2, 3 and 4 referred to in point 1.2.1 shall be launched before the end of January 2022. If necessary, additional calls for proposals could be published in the case of market disturbance, loss of consumer confidence or other specific problems, as referred to in point 1.2.2 and 1.2.3, as soon as possible after the beginning of that market disturbance.

The overall amount for information provision and promotion programmes to be awarded in 2022 amounts to EUR 176 400 000. This amount is split between:
(a) simple programmes: EUR 89 000 000;
(b) multi programmes: EUR 87 400 000.

The allocation for the simple programmes under shared management establishes the maximum amount that could be granted when selecting these programmes in 2022. Given the fact that appropriations for simple programmes are non-differentiated and implemented over several years, that amount shall not necessarily correspond to the commitment appropriations entered in the general budget of the Union for 2022.

1.2.1. Actions for proposal for simple and multi programmes, in the internal market and in third countries

Background

The Commission is aiming at a balanced work programme, taking into account the relevant EU regulations and policy objectives, the current trade situation and macro-economic perspectives of the agricultural markets, the observations received from stakeholders (consulted via the Civil Dialogue Group on Quality and Promotion) and Member States (consulted via the Committee for the Common Organisation of Agricultural Markets – Promotion), and the results of the previous calls.

Moreover, the 2022 annual work programme contributes to the realisation of the political priorities of the European Commission for 2019-2024, in particular the European Green Deal and the Farm to Fork Strategy¹, as well as Europe’s Beating Cancer Plan.²

The Farm to Fork Strategy aims to accelerate our transition to a fair, healthy and environmentally-friendly sustainable food system that should (a) have a neutral or positive environmental impact, (b) help mitigate climate change (i.e. reduce greenhouse gas emissions and/or increase carbon removals) and adapt to its impacts, (c) reverse the loss of biodiversity, (d) ensure food security, nutrition and public health, making sure that everyone has access to sufficient, safe, nutritious, sustainable food and (e) preserve affordability of food while generating fairer economic returns, fostering competitiveness of the EU supply sector and promoting fair trade. Even though the EU’s transition to sustainable food systems has started in many areas, food systems remain one of the key drivers of climate change and environmental degradation. There is an urgent need to reduce dependency on pesticides and antimicrobials, minimize fertilisation and water pollution, reduce greenhouse gas emissions and/or enhance carbon removals, enhance organic farming and other sustainable practices such as precision farming, improve animal welfare, reverse biodiversity loss, facilitate transition to sustainable food consumption and citizen’s shift to healthy diets in line with national Food Based Dietary Guidelines³ (FBDG). The annual work programme’s orientation shall therefore include topics that highlight and favour products complying with these objectives such as environmental sustainability of Union agriculture, advancing animal welfare and promoting the consumption of fruit and vegetables in the context of balanced, healthy diets. The promotion policy will thus significantly contribute to the objective of increasing sustainable production and consumption of agricultural products.

To strengthen the policy’s support to the Farm to Fork objectives in terms of promoting sustainable consumption, promotion activities aimed at consumers on the internal market shall refer to and be in line with Food Based Dietary Guidelines of the targeted Member States.

In addition, to encourage proposing organisations to put forward promotion programmes that support the objectives of the climate and environmental ambition of the CAP, the European Green Deal and the Farm to Fork Strategy to promote sustainable agricultural production methods, the award criteria of the 2022 annual work programme will include, under ‘relevance’, a sub-criterion, namely “contribution of the proposed information provision and promotion project in respect of the objectives of the climate and environmental ambition of the CAP, the European Green Deal and the Farm to Fork strategies, in particular on sustainability of production and consumption”, using as a reference the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO)’s definition of sustainable agriculture⁴.

The work programme also takes into account the important role of promotion policy to support the sustainable recovery of the EU agri-food sector in a challenging economic context.

The 2022 annual work programme will also cover the following objectives of Regulation (EU) No 1144/2014:

- to aim activities at third countries where there is the highest potential of growth, hence a significant share of the budget should be allocated to third countries;
- on the internal market, to inform consumers about EU quality schemes.

Geographic priorities

Third country markets offer major growth potential. In order to define priorities for third markets, the Commission's services made a macro-economic analysis on projected increase in imports for a selection of products on existing or emerging markets, peered with imports' growth potential. The macro-economic results were crossed with a policy evaluation on free trade agreements and expected removal of sanitary and phytosanitary barriers.

According to this analysis, the most encouraging markets identified include:

- China and South East Asia: these markets continue to be attractive markets with promising prospects for increasing imports of EU agricultural products due to continued GDP growth, population growth and past as well as forecasted growth of imports of agri-food products. China and the South East Asia region make up a large share of world imports of agri-food products, which further underlines their importance as a key destination for promotion actions supporting exports of EU agricultural products.

- Japan and South Korea: these markets remain relevant established markets, in particular for high value EU agricultural products including those products that benefit from a protected designation of origin (PDO) or a protected geographical indication (PGI).

- Singapore and Vietnam: these markets present significant export opportunities for EU producers, and they have been further enhanced by the entry into force of the EU-Singapore and EU-Vietnam free trade agreements (FTAs). Singapore is a prime location for trade, both in Asia and worldwide. It has a key position in global value chains and is an active member of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN). It means that the EU’s economic presence in ASEAN will grow and the agreement with Vietnam, another ASEAN member, will strengthen it further.

- North America; this region absorbs the largest share of agricultural exports from the EU and remains an attractive established market for EU agri-food products. The EU-Canada Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA) and the ongoing work towards the modernisation of the EU-Mexico Global Agreement constitute additional arguments in favour of these markets. The change in the US administration revives hopes for a renewed partnership and the temporary lift of US additional tariffs on the EU agri-food products imposed in the framework of WTO civil aircraft dispute has been a positive sign in the right direction. The US is attractive as it is a large market with substantial interest of consumers in EU products.

- Other geographical areas with identified potential for specific products:

  The United Kingdom: the UK is currently the destination of 25% of EU27 exports and is a key market for EU27 exports of beef, poultry, rice, fruits and vegetables, olive oil, wine and spirits. The end of transition period at the end of 2020 and implementation of EU-UK Trade and Cooperation Agreement (TCA) represent a considerable challenge for EU producers.

  Central and South American countries do not currently show the greatest growth potential but may be attractive for specific EU agri-food products and in order to diversify markets. The opportunities provided by the EU-Mercosur trade agreement will provide to the EU the considerable advantage of being the first large preferential trade partner entering that market.

  The country grouping of Eastern Europe and Central Asia is also not in the strongest growth category and exports to Russia continue to face restrictions due to the import embargo on a number of EU agri-food products which has been extended until the end of 2021. Despite the embargo, Russia remains the 5th largest EU export destination and countries from the region provide opportunities for exports of specific EU agri-food products.

  Since negotiations for free trade agreements with New Zealand and Australia were launched in June 2018, EU exporters may anticipate new market opportunities in these markets. In the past, this region has been under-represented with regard to the share of promotion programmes implemented.

  The Near and Middle East are displaying moderate GDP growth rates but the region remains a destination with significant potential for specific products. The region has also emerged as an alternative destination for EU agri-food products when the Russian ban affected export opportunities for EU exporters. The emerging importance of the region as a destination for certain EU agri-food products could be further built on in the future.

As regards multi-programmes, no geographical priorities are proposed for promotion programmes in third countries. Applicants are nevertheless encouraged to pay attention to the most promising geographical markets identified above.

Sectorial suggestions
In terms of products, it is proposed to allocate a certain share of the promotion budget to sectors where there is a particular interest in helping producers and exporters to consolidate or develop demand of healthy food choices and new markets.

The Farm to Fork Strategy\(^5\) set the target of 25% utilised agricultural area under organic farming by 2030. In 2019, 8.5% of agricultural area in the EU was under organic farming. Promotion shall support the objectives of the Commission’s Farm-to-Fork Strategy by stimulating demand for organic products in the internal market and in third countries. The action plan for the development of organic production\(^6\) in the EU adopted on 25 March 2021 details the actions of promoting organic farming and the EU logo.

Increasing the sustainability of food production is one of the key elements of the Farm to Fork Strategy that calls for the promotion policy to enhance its contribution to sustainable production and consumption. The Farm to Fork strategy furthermore aims to create a favourable food environment that makes it easier to choose healthy and sustainable diets.

The fruit and vegetables sector is facing persisting challenges such as declining consumption and exports (e.g. Russian embargo, market access difficulties mostly due to tariff and non-tariff barriers) as well as a structurally weak bargaining position vis-à-vis large-scale retail and processors. Consumption of fruit and vegetables in the EU has declined in recent years and now stands below the recommendations of the World Health Organisation (400g in 5 portions per day). Promoting the consumption of fruit and vegetables in the frame of healthy dietary practices is therefore justified and should be one of the key priorities of the promotion policy. Moreover, this is in line with the Communication on Europe’s Beating Cancer Plan\(^7\), the Communication on the Future of Food and Farming\(^8\) and the HealthyLifestyle4All (HL4A) initiative\(^9\).

If there are two (or more) proposals with the same number of points in the last place of the same ranked list, then the proposal(s) which allows for diversification in terms of products or targeted markets shall be prioritised. It means that between ex aequo proposals, the Commission shall first select the one the content of which (firstly in terms of products, secondly in terms of targeted market) is not yet represented in the higher ranked proposals. If this criterion cannot be applied, then the Commission shall select first the programme which got the highest score for individual award criteria. It will first compare the scores for ‘Relevance’, then for ‘Impact’, and finally for ‘Quality’.

Criteria for reallocation of foreseen amounts

If for a given topic there are not enough proposals on the ranked list to exhaust the whole foreseen amount, the remaining amount may be reallocated to other topics according to the following criteria:

(a) the total of the remaining foreseen amount for the four topics for the internal market shall be allocated to the projects targeting the internal market with the highest quality score, irrespective of the topic for which they have applied;

(b) the same approach shall be taken for the two topics for third countries;

(c) if the foreseen amount is still not exhausted, the remaining amounts for both internal market and third countries shall be merged and assigned to projects with the highest quality score, irrespective of the priority and topic for which they have applied.

The order of the ranked lists will be strictly followed.
