(meeting 22 October 2021)

The World Union of Wholesale Markets (WUWM)

- The World Union of Wholesale Markets (WUWM) is an international network of fresh food and products organizations.
- 150 wholesalers and 30 retailers and street markets from around the world lead international efforts to ensure food security as well as healthy, guaranteed and accessible diets for everyone.
- With 217 members, WUWM works in over 40 countries worldwide, covering 5 continents.

The World Union of Wholesale Markets (WUWM)

- The goal is to make sure that people around the world have easy access to high-quality, healthy diets through a well-organized, safe and sustainable food system.
- WUWM shares expertise, innovation and services while connecting new ideas with food actors worldwide in order to achieve food accessibility and security for all.

The World Union of Wholesale Markets (WUWM)

- The Union cooperates with partners in international organizations, governments, businesses and the public by exchanging ideas and sharing best practices to upgrade the fresh food supply chain.
- Wholesale distributors play a vital role in the global supply chain and, throughout the COVID-19 pandemic, each of the major sub-segments of the industry has experienced significant challenges.

The World Union of Wholesale Markets (WUWM)

- WUWM is empowering wholesale and retail markets, and other fresh food actors, with the necessary skills, knowledge, and networks to improve their capabilities.
- Modern wholesale markets benefit all food system actors. Today, modern wholesale markets are the most efficient with inclusive logistical platforms ensuring food security at both the local and global levels.
- These ‘fresh food hubs’ allow for the development of sustainable and resilient food systems.
