EU - Ukraine Solidarity Lanes and UN Black Sea Grain Initiative

Solidarity Lanes

- The blockade of Ukrainian grains by the Russian army have drastically reduced grains supply to global markets. Ukrainian Black Sea ports accounted for 90% of its export of grain and oilseeds.
- The EU has provided a key contribution to facilitate the export of these food products, through the EU–Ukraine Solidarity Lanes: alternative logistics routes for Ukrainian exports.
- Over 12.5 million tonnes of grains, oilseeds and related products exported since May 2022.

UN-TR- facilitated Black Sea Grain Initiative

- Crucial to reopen the sea access; positive signal to markets resulting in price stabilisation.
- As of 3 October, nearly 6 million tonnes of grain and other foodstuffs were moved from the three Ukrainian ports.
- Important part of these exports (wheat) has gone to Africa, the Middle East and Asia.
